

THE TAMARACK

North Central High School
June, 1932

To Miss Christine McRae, who has been an ideal, cooperative helper in many school projects, whose ability to inspire all students with whom she comes into contact with, whose deep understanding, whose splendid disposition and fine personality which have won her the everlasting friendship of the entire school, this book is dedicated by the class of June, 1932.

Since her coming to North Central, she has been active in many school organizations, including Theatre Masque, Vox Puellarum, Girls' League and as director of the senior A girls.

Class Will

We, the members of the graduating class of June, 1932, being of sound mind and body, and in full possession of all our faculties, and wishing a correct disposal of our property to be made, hereby make, publish and direct that this, our last will and testament be executed in the following manner.

It was our intention to will our president's gavel to the shop, but Boh wished to take it with him, as some day he may be pounding stakes for a circus. Instead we will his austere manner and dignity in conducting class meetings to Mack Koon, senior B president.

We leave a certificate of remembrance to the Girls' League from Earl Neuru. Earl is grieved that he will have to leave that organization to shift for itself now that he is giving up active control. He always wanted to join the League.

Virginia Rooney leaves her contagious laughter and sunny disposition to Max Tatman, the silent Indian. We hope it brings Max the popularity that Virginia has enjoyed during her sojourn here.

Francis Drinkard wills his half of the minuet act to that shapely creature, Hartman Smith. "Hot One," having a dual personality, can handle both ends of the act.

Marjorie Carroll donates her curly locks to Mr. Stager, head custodian of the school, for use as an O'Cedar mop.

To Bud Jones, shrinking violet of the senior B class, we leave Dorothy Schmacher's frivolous and fickle nature as well as her delicate and fragile physique.

By special request, we bequeath Phil Peterson's flat feet to North Central's fire squad. We hope they may be of material use in stamping out any conflagrations which may occur about this edifice.

Barbara Bloom, feeling that Mr. Bradford's bald pate must suffer severely from the chilly breezes, gets a big bang out of donating her bangs as a method of protection for said pate.

We leave Jack Misselhorn's gift of gab to Armand McEwen, so that if he ever gets to be a senior A, he can make himself heard in class meetings as Jack does.

Eleanor Henderson has decided to leave not only her feminine charm but her dimples, to Rodger Bankson. You should feel honored, Roddy, this is an unusual award.

Jack "Squirt" Gunn, feeling that he is in line for a new pair of pants for graduation (long one's, too), wills his short pants to John Hackett.

Dorothy Breeden and her News hounds leave the News office all littered with copy paper and typewriter paraphernalia to the forthcoming staff.

Let us mention here that Marion Carr and Bobby Demick, upon being asked what they would leave, stated that their favorite corner in the hall was Audrey Gates' and Lester McEachran's for the asking.

Alice Carter's own quaint excuses for gaining admittance to room 126, the Federation office, we leave to Kathryn Hummer. Alice put the finishing touches on her education in that room. But then, maybe Kay has passed the learning stage.

We leave Jeanne Markert's expressive gesticulations and Aphrodite dances to Claire Harris. Claire is probably best known for her ability on the tennis court, but she possesses unknown talent in the dancing line.

Joe "Sunshine" Shriver leaves his ability to elude any and all forms of labor to Ralph McReynolds, although Ralph seems to do well enough without Joe's aid.

Don Briggs, wishing to get rid of his scrawny beard, wills the hirsute appendages to Del Waterhouse. Don has abandoned his hopes of ever being a hermit. We are sorry about that, too, because we don't appreciate his odoriferous shoe dye.

Margaret Carpenter leaves all the gray hair that she has acquired in the News office to Mr. Collins. Gray hair is better than no hair at all, Arthur.

Doris Boyer graciously wills her contralto voice to that crooning troubadour, Ralph Mills, for use in further imitations of Bing Crosby.

And now, to all those whom we have been forced to omit, we leave our best wishes and kindest regards.

Thus exits the best class that ever bluffed through a lesson.

BOB CAMPBELL

Class History

This class of June '32
Does leave this history
To those who may be interested
In this our pedigree

This class of ours did have two parts
Until united we
Became the best the school has seen
In many a century

From Havermale there came a group
With record envions
Whose athletic feats and such
Brought hope to all of us

The second part composed of frosh
No initiative did show
Because the haughty senior A's
Did trample on them so

About this time there came a man
Whose hair was red as fire
Whenever anything went wrong
He showed his Irish ire

He's gone away our prond Coach Reese
He scammed and left the town
A man whose teams won every game
And brought us rich renown

Suggestions from the faculty
And much investigation
Of color, style and types of dress
Led to dress regulation

Our tennis players crowded were
A plight which was not fair
Three well built courts were added to
The ones already there

Guy Wicks succeeded Mr. Reese
He stayed here for a year
He did well with the men he had
So let's give him a cheer

Coach Buckley came from W. S. C.
That's where he learned his stuff
His teams are noted for their fight
And sure are rough and tough

The Pow Wow was a great success
And it's no mystery
Its purpose was to give us pep
To insure Victory

Luck on that last Thanksgiving day
Gave L. C. the win
They won because they got the breaks
Our game it might have been

The Student Council of the school
Decreed that we should eat
They met to dine and to discuss
The problems they would meet

This spring our school made a change
Toward democracy
They gave us time to air our views
And tell the faults we see

Depression caught us in its tail
And tied up all our bail
Our bank is closed our money gone
We hope no more will fail

E. Henderson and Bill Dibblee
Have lead the girls and boys
In Federation and in League
Through all our cares and joys

We chose Boy Seymour to lead our flock
When we were senior B's
A royally good president he did make
So Bob still has the keys

Vice president well chosen were
By all the ballots cast
Miss Rooney as a senior B
"John" Neurn as our last

The rest of our good officers
Will not be mentioned here
If you would know them by their names
You have to look elsewhere we fear

Performing their official jobs
With much enthusiasm
They led us through our cares and woes
And over every chasm

And in conclusion let us say
That we have tried our best
To set examples good enough
To honor all the rest.

Class Prophecy

On the Roof Gardens of the Davenport Hotel, Ruth and I, two old maids, you might know, settled down in our majestic autogiro. We had just returned from an extensive excursion of our fashionable city resorts, Mead, Cheney, Dartford, and why, even Moah. Now having definitely decided to stay in the metropolis, Spokane, we started reminiscing about old acquaintances—side-kick's of 1932.

"Rufus, I have some wooden slugs—let's take a slant at the old-time Television whatcha-ma-gig er' sumpin'.

"Bum-de-dum222222222222-oh! Hotel De-Gink? Pardon—wrong number. Oh, Bob Seymour? Why! how you rate? I see. Just spending the winter months along the romantic shores of the muddier than ever Spokane River. You say—Don Briggs and Earl Neuru are still there—Huh? Well, deserted their dear wives again. Poor Virginia Rooney and Audrey Owen. Well anyhow, it's rather exciting to find you big business men retired. By the way, Bob, what's the latest?"

"Say, Ruth, the "cream of the crop of 1932 grades" are out working in a big way. Saw Louise Fredel selling extras down on Trent yesterday. Jeanne Sharp is washing dog collars at the dog pound's private laundry. Nellie Buxton is selling razor blade sharpeners at Trent and Bernard—so you see, poor grades can hold one back."

Oh yah! Dibblee and Bloom are clicking great! Why Bill is quite the man about town, he pusha-da-cart (professional street-cleaner). Consequently, they are living on easy street."

"Golly, Bob, always did think Bill had ability to push things forward. Say, slip me a couple of numbers, O. K."

"Demick 123456789—Miss Carr speaking—Well, hello, Marion! Say, you're cuter than ever, how's Bob Demick?"

"Oh, Chuck, I'm just a (boo-hoo) a (boo) nervous wreck. We-a- we had a disagreement just over football technique—and now he's going steady with Dot Schumaeh. Oh, and they look so "snooty" together—oh, (boo-hoo)."

"Sorry, ole kid, but I'd love to see them together."

"Chuck, to change the subject, your old pal, Maggie McGee, is sure zip-zip-zippin' along—she's demonstrating $15 rackets in the children's department at Britt's."

"Oh, goody, goody. I just knew Maggie would make a success of her high school tennis career. Say know any gossip about Jeanne Markert or Irene Mead?"

"Oh shoh, shoh! Jeanne developed her dramatic ability to such an extent as to giving free lectures about the "Art of Picking Your Teeth with a Fork." Irene Mead runs a vogish haberdashery at Mead—just suppose she wants us to think the town was named after her."

"Sorry to leave you, Marion; but gee, we've got so many good ole' alumni to give a ring.

"Now to call some big-time business men. This is a queer looking number, Ruth. Heart-breaker 231231231. What? Can we believe our eyes. It's Jack Misselhorn's number—dear old Jack. Kinda wonder what sort of profession he has entered. Perhaps he and Fenton Sherwood are making basketball bring in the shekels.

Listen! What's the operator saying?"

"Misselhorn's Beauty Salon."

"May I have the great pleasure to speak to the note-worthy Jack Mizzleworm? Oh, he's busy—well we'll just take a glance at the salon through this television. Gee, Chuck there's Mildred Well's and Dorothy Oliver having facials. Who's that? She seems to be having her precious little "Goojy," her pet Pekinese, get his toe-nails trimmed while she's having her hair fixed over er' sumpin. There's her dear sister Marjorie. Why, she is having her face lifted. Woe is me! It seems nice to have them get some beauty attention—what sights they are! Huh?—oh yah!

"Marjorie says that some more N. C.'ers are down the hall a bit. Lawyer's office and their business is writin wills. Who? Barbara Bloom, Joe Brownlow and Bob Campbell. I'll bet they just kept the profession up cuz they got a break in high school. But darn it, we would too.

Knock—knock—knock!

"Answer the door, Rufus. Aw nertz, it's the Fuller Brush man. Well, anyhow next P. M. we have more and even more alums of 1932 to give a ring

PULLING TOGETHER

School spirit? What does it mean to you? How would you define it? Perhaps we may say that it is something that escapes definition, yet is something that is so real and active in the life of a school that even the occasional visitor will soon observe the presence or lack of proper school spirit among its students.

This being true, it may be well for North Central students to consider certain ways in which school spirit often shows itself; this would enable the students to check up on their own contributions of proper school spirit to North Central.

Proper school spirit demands that you put the welfare of the school, as a whole, ahead of your class, your club, your team or any other school organization to which you belong. It is not opposed to class or club loyalty, but on the contrary thrives best when class and club spirit are at their best.

If you whole-heartedly enter into the spirit of your class, your club or your team, you will never forget that these organizations are but parts of the entire school and that the interests of such organizations are always subordinate to those of the entire school.

Good school spirit tends to be concerned with everything. Athletic contests, parties and other school functions are not the only places where it should be strongly in evidence; it is most worthy when it makes itself felt at school activities which may not be so popular. You may attend parties and root at football games, but if you fail to support the Tamarack, the North Central News, if you skip classes, dodge school debates, if you do not help to make school music a success, you are lacking in school spirit because you put your own inclinations ahead of the best interest of the school.

Proper school spirit will make you cooperative, will make you want to "pull together." It will teach you to sacrifice your own wishes for the common good.

If you have it, you will help and work on some school project when you prefer going to a dance. If you have it, you will do your best in supporting school publications. If you have it, you will boast for your school play, even though you failed to receive a part.

Proper school spirit will make you want to do up in your power, and more, to make all undertakings of North Central go on to success and victory always.

EDUCATION PAYS!

Can you drop out of school today and take a job at $80 a day? Many students who start to high school never finish their course. Lack of interest or the attraction of earning money causes many of them to quit school. The class that graduates from high school is always much smaller than that same class was on entering.

Have you yourself definitely decided that you will go through to the end of the high school course or do you have a notion that you will quit before that time?

If you have thought about quitting and going to work, how much do you think that you should earn a day to make it worth while? Unless you can earn $50 a day, you will be foolish to leave school. And there isn't much chance in the world for you to earn that amount today.

It will not pay you to leave school for a job that pays less than $50 daily, because each day you spend in high school is worth $45 to you.

Here is the way it figures out. The lifetime earnings of a large number of high school graduates were added together and averaged by educational experts. It was determined that the average earnings of a high school graduate during his lifetime total $78,000. The same was done with the worker without high school education and his total lifetime earnings averaged $45,000.

The pupil who drops out of school at the end of the eighth grade and goes to work will probably earn about $2000 during the four years that he should otherwise have spent in high school. But in total earnings, the fellow who spends those four years at his books gets $33,000 more—the difference between $78,000 and $45,000.

If you go on to college, you will be still further benefited. The average college student earns $150,000 during his lifetime, or nearly twice as much as the high school graduate. Those four years in college are worth almost $100 a day. Thus it is clear that the higher you go up the educational ladder, the more your school days are worth.

Your schooling in the first eight grades is worth $31 a day to you in earning power; in the ninth to twelfth grades, $45; and in college, $100. Education certainly pays!

▼▼▼ AU REVOIR

Four long years are about to come to a pass. We say they are long because we have done so much, accomplished so much.

We have learned a great many things, derived much. Some of it has come from books and some from the numerous friendship and associations which we have contracted during our high school careers.

We have tasted the delightful taste of victory, and we remember it, and yes, we have tasted defeat, bitter defeat and we remember that and have profited thereby.

These four years have indeed been short.

Short because of the fun we've had, the extremely happy times we've shared with everybody and the history we've made for North Central.

There will be tears in parting and also gladness. Tears, in that one always regrets leaving a place and people he has learned to love. Our leavetaking will be glad in that we are going on to seek our higher education, higher ideals.

We will always remember North Central as the place where we spent the happiest days of our lives despite all the minor trivialities we endured. Although we will be elsewhere striving and going our way in the world we will always be true North Centralites in spirit and in thoughts.

So au revoir, dear old halls, teachers and everybody. Au revoir, dear old North Central high.

▼▼▼ VICTORY, WHAT IS IT?

Some people have vague ideas about it, others have fantastic, romantic ideas and there are some who have no ideas at all. They know there is such a word, that Noah Webster has it in his well-known volume, the Dictionary, but they go no further than to discover its meaning.

Still, there are some people who know what victory is. If by chance you happen upon an athlete, ask him what victory is. He'll tell you it's the thrill of having won the game and the effect of that thrill. He won't mention the score, or the bad breaks he had or the time Lady Luck pulled him through a pinch. No, he probably will have forgotten these details. They were foremost at the moment, but they are now memories to him, pleasant memories. He remembers the strange feeling inside of him that he had when he heard his comrades say, "Boy, what a game. We've won!" That strange feeling pushed at him, forced him upward, goaded him into wanting to do bigger things where victory meant more than a banner won. Where the spoils were greater. Still he wouldn't have traded the banner for all the money in the world, at the time.

Now he looks at the banner with a bright twinkle in his eye, a satisfied smile on his face and a mind full of remembrances. But the victory has made him do things. That strange feeling inside him has worked wonders for that athlete. Athletic triumphs have paved the way for his triumphs in everyday life. He remembers the thrill he received, he remembers it most decidedly. It formed the embryo of his present success.

An Unforeseen Victory

FIRST PRIZE STORY
By Margaret Proff

There was a man who had lost his faith in life, and he wanted to quit. He had lost his health and night after night was a long drawn out torture to him. His eyes were failing him, and he could no longer read.

At times he tried to remember the things that had made life worth living for him in his youth, and as he looked back he saw they were mainly things that were cherished illusions, things that bore no relation to reality. His vague desires had reached out again and again, but had never grasped an object. Fortune, success and even the deserved reward that comes from much labor had somehow escaped him. He realized that the disease which had him in its grip could never be cured, and that he must go on until the last breath of life had left him.

There seemed nothing in the world for him to do, and he feared that his repeated failures were even becoming monotonous to his friends. Upon looking back some fifty years, he could see nothing but failure after failure ebbing his strength and power. He felt that he was the exponent of a losing cause. He became narrow and introvert, and at last he could think of nothing but one idea. It was an idea from one of the sages which he had read, and it consisted of but one line "The door is open." It was a phrase which had been greatly modified by the author, but the man was so weary that only the one bit of it stuck in his memory. "The door is open" and he knew that sometime he must go through that door.

Life held but little for him, to be sure; why not hasten destiny's process, and have it over with rather than make it a long drawn-out torture? When he had finally made up his mind, he mustered all his arguments and carried them to his best and closest friend. He was prepared for a struggle, but much to his amazement the friend listened quietly to what he had to say, and then agreed with him.

"I think that you are right," he said. "There is no chance for recovery, and I agree with you in that the best thing to do is to go out quietly and simply."

This answer took the man by surprise, but he was glad to be upheld in his view so he bade his friend goodby and turned to go.

He was called back. "Before you go," the friend said, "I would see that every thing is in its exact order. There are a number of letters that you probably should write to friends. Don't leave any debts behind, for they will worry other people. You don't want in doing this to be an inconvenience to any one. Be sure to leave enough money for funeral expenses, and enough for your two sons to carry on for a year or until they become used to carrying on without your accustomed help. It would be ungracious to go through the door leaving your things disordered for some one else to cope with. It would be another matter if destiny took you, then you would not be blamed; but as you are doing this yourself, let no man say that you aimed to escape your obligations.

"That is quite true," said the man. "I had not thought of that. I am certainly thankful for the reminder. I have quite a number of things to set in order. It will take some time, but I can bear it until then."

A month later the men met on the street. "Well," said the friend, "how are things going?"

"I am not ready yet," was the reply. "There proved to be a number of things for me to do that were really important, I am aiming to finish some tasks that I left half done in my youth. They may bring in a little money for my sons. I stand things better now though, that I know that it may be only for the moment."

"I am glad that you are progressing." Then they passed on.

A year went by, and the man came to see his friend again. "I am afraid that you will think me a quitter, but to set my whole house in order is a colossal task. I have not finished yet, and I don't know when I shall. There is always something new staring me in the face, and duties done seem to invite others. Those letters I wrote evoked others, and each one of my friends seem to have a favor to ask that a departing man cannot refuse. I have finished one of the tasks from my youth, and have started another. When this is done I am not sure that I will not attack one more. After all I believe I shall not be ready to leave until the hour of destiny."

His friend looked at him steadily and said, "You are right. It is too great a responsibility to cheat destiny. We cannot tell when we shall be called leaving some tasks undone. Our lives are never completely in order, and it is a shame for the soul to give way when the body is still capable."

Again the men separated, but each walked on with the thrilling idea of 'Something accomplished and something done.'

Behind Schedule

SECOND PRIZE STORY

By William W. Lee

The yellow desk-lamp glowed faintly through the dismal gloom of the huge cabin. On opposite sides of the oaken desk stood two men, their faces vague and distorted by the grotesque shadows of the dim lamp. Through thick velvet curtains there penetrated the low moan of a strong head-wind and the wash of gigantic waves breaking on the Pusan's bow as she plunged and ploughed through heavy seas.

"You're all right as an assistant, but you haven't got the stuff to make any sort of a half decent chief. We're two days behind schedule as it is and with the engines worse every day, we'll never get there." The heavy voice of the weatherbeaten captain shook and vibrated with suppressed emotion as he fairly threw his words at the young man who faced him in silent humiliation. The eyes of the young engineer lifted and glowed feverishly in hot resentment for a moment; then with a crest-fallen stare they fell dejectedly and remained fixed on the heavy carpets on the floor.

"I'm getting a new chief as soon as we hit land. I haven't any use for spineless lubbers. I want a man that can run engines." These last words were shouted in a bellowing rage, but the engineer remained silent and motionless. Then with a vehement "that's all," he was dismissed.

Roe Mathis, chief engineer of the Pusan, stepped out onto the slippery deck with the captain's words still echoing in his ears. As he staggered down the iron ladder to the second deck, he felt as if he were sinking into the very depths of oblivion. So he was only fit to be an "under-dog;" he didn't have the stuff to make good. His whole soul and fiber rebelled against the very words; yet in his heart he knew he had failed his duty. As if in a dream, he crossed the deck to his cabin. The green mountainous waves seemed to beckon and call to him, and he struggled to restrain himself from their lure. How good it would be to bury himself into the comforting arms of the sea! After all, was life really worth living? Then involuntarily he shuddered and with a great effort turned and entered his cabin and flung himself on his bunk.

He tried to sleep, but his tortured mind was incapable of rest. For hours he tossed about, his mind a riot of apprehensions. Only four days ago he was the happiest person on earth, for on that day his wish of a lifetime had been fulfilled. Five years ago he had begun his first work as a ship mechanic. All this time he had been hoping against hope that some day he would be given an opportunity to prove himself and be promoted. Gradually he had worked his way toward the top, and at last after five years of conscientious toil he had been promoted to the position of third assistant engineer. Third assistant engineer was a high sounding title, but it meant little. There was only one real position of importance, and that was chief engineer. Many men had worked years and years, and yet how few of them ever rose above an assistant's position. Personally, he too had very slight hopes of rising above his position, but nevertheless, he longed to be given a chance to make good. Then came the miraculous "break." At the last port, Williams, the chief engineer, had suddenly been taken violently ill and had been removed to a shore hospital. As a man to temporarily fill his position for the rest of the voyage, he recommended Mathis. That was only four days ago, but it seemed ages.

When Mathis received the news of his "break," he was dumbfounded with surprise. Slowly it dawned upon him that his chance had come. Now if he could only prove his ability on the remainder of the voyage, he could be sure of a permanent position as chief engineer. But as with all youth, his good luck went to his head like wine. He had just to celebrate the occasion in some way.

That night he went ashore, the happiest man in all the world. Throwing his cares to the winds, he made merry in the typical seaman manner. The next morning the Fushan sailed. On board he paraded up and down in his new uniform. His chest seemed to expand until he began to fear the buttons of his coat would pop off. The next morning found the Fushan well out at sea. Down in the engine room, the main engine suddenly showed signs of losing power. The loss steadily increased in spite of all attempts to remedy it. On the second day out she was limping noticeably. On the third day the limp became acute, and now on the fourth day she had lost enough speed to be fully two days behind schedule.

For years the Fushan had built up the reputation of being the most punctual liner on the whole Pacific. To lose this reputation by being behind would be a great blow to her owners and consequently would result in a great loss of trade. For years she had been the queen of the eastern seas, but now by a foolish lack of foresight she was behind schedule with a bad engine and hardly a chance of ever regaining the lost time. It was all his fault and he knew it. Instead of going over his engines as any thorough chief would have done, he had spent his last night in port celebrating; and in satisfying a boyish urge he had thrown away his entire future.

As far as evidence and the captain were concerned, he was a failure. He felt like a failure, but yet he hated to admit it. Was this tragic incident caused by his lack of ability as an engineer or was it merely the result of a moment's carelessness? To think, after five long years of patient toil only to turn out a failure; it simply couldn't be true! He didn't care if he was to be "fired" at the next port, as long as he remained on board he was still chief engineer; and as such, he was still responsible for the ship's mechanism and the men under his control. He had been the cause of the whole affair, and now it was up to him to straighten it out. Was he such a failure as to be beyond redemption? In a maelstrom of thoughts he pondered over this last question. Then sudden as the brilliant sun that pierces the dark clouds after a summer storm, a solution presented itself like a thunder-clap and seemed to strike at the very roots of his troubled brain. A wave of breathlessness swept over him, and it was fully a minute before he recovered. Then he made his decision.

Slaggering from his bunk he hurriedly dressed with hands that shook and trembled. Great beads of perspiration broke out on his forehead, and his breath came in spasmodic gasps. Internally he was not the same crest-fallen youth of a few hours back; he would prove to the captain that he was wrong; he was determined to make good at any cost.

Now he stood up, cool and composed, for in his great determination he found strength that he had never before experienced. Striding quickly to the door, he hesitated an instant with his hand on the knob. Then with a quick wrench he flung it open and disappeared into the inky blackness of the night. On the bridge two bells sounded; it was well past midnight.

Groping his way recklessly across the deck, he turned his steps toward the quarters of the crew. His mind was now entirely clear, and no air of nervousness or indecision hung about him. It was if he had become another person; instead of the dejected failure, he was a hard and determined man. As he hastened down the ladder to the berths of the sleeping crew, his mind was centered on one great object; the Fushan must be on time.

With whip-like commands he aroused the slumbering members of the engine crew. Grumbling and complaining the entire force was ushered down into the stifling heat of the throbbing engines. Order after order rang out. The limping engine was quickly turned off, and the men fell upon it in frenzied haste removing the battered pistons from the boiling hot casings. Curses and oaths resounded through the furnace-like heat as fingers and palms were burned and scalded by the heated parts. Above the din only the steady beat of the auxiliary Diesels and the commanding voice of Mathis were discernable. Like a ruthless galley master of old he drove his grumbling crew relentlessly on through the night.

In the control room on the bridge the sudden silence of the main engine was quickly noticed. Vainly the night watch telephoned the engine room for an explanation, but always the reply was, "That's the best we can do."

The next morning the report reached the captain that the main engine had gone dead. All hopes of the Fushan reaching port within ten days of the scheduled time was gone; she was now already four days behind. Raging up and down his cabin, the grizzled captain cursed and fumed; and always Mathis was the center of the verbal abuse. At the morning mess table the begrimed engine crew appeared red-eyed and tired only to dive back into their stifling hole immediately after they had eaten. Of Mathis there was no sign. Probably too yellow to turn up, the captain thought as he continued in his ugly mood. The noon meal was an exact repetition of the breakfast. Still of Mathis there was no sign.

That night shortly after seven bells, the main engine suddenly roared into action. Under forced draft each stroke of the powerful pistons sent the Fushan leaping forward. In her wake was left a wide ribbon of luminous foam while black smoke poured in rolls from her huge funnels. Dead tired, the engine crew dragged themselves up from their smothering hole; and, as if by common consent, each grease-soaked figure threw himself into his bunk and fell off into an unconscious slumber.

In the darkness a grimy figure was seen to climb the bridge ladder. On the fore starboard Mathis again faced the captain. Above, the full moon threw its pale rays from among the floating clouds as the steamer cut its way through the billowing seas. "The Fushan shall be on time, sir," he reported. The old captain remained silent. His only reply was to place his arm on Mathis' shoulder and firmly grip the grimy hand.

LIKES

SECOND PRIZE POEM

By Clarice Hart

I like the scent of the pine trees in the rain,
 Huge fields of shimmering yellow grain,
 The gorgeous sunset's purple haze,
 Long an drowsy summer days,
 The sight of shiny silver dollars,
 And men's snowy white starched collars,
 The sound of a train as it grinds the rails,
 Swift rushing rivers and long mountain trails,
 The man in the moon who sees and knows all,
 The cricket's chirp and the whip-poor-will's call.
 A rough country road surrounded by gutters,
 An old-fashioned Ford that rattles and sputters,
 The sweet fresh odor of new green peas,
 The tall rigid forms of poplar trees,
 Good band music and songs of love,
 The bill and coo of the a turtle dove,
 To roam the hills and valleys over,
 The thrill of finding a four-leaf clover,
 Now really and truthfully, I must confess
 I like just the common every-day things best.

WHAT IS BEAUTY?

FIRST PRIZE POEM

By June Armstrong

What is beauty? 'Tis the laughter of a child;
 'Tis the calling of the whip-poor-will at night.
 'Tis the eager, gleaming ray of golden light
 That finds its way through jungles, tangled, wild.
 'Tis the singing of the zephyrs frisking free;
 'Tis the drops of rain that patter on the loam.
 'Tis the lamp that lights the window of our home;
 'Tis the glimpse of cherries lost up in a tree.

What is beauty? 'Tis not far away:
 'Tis in the roses resting by your door,
 'Tis in the worn-out rug upon your floor
 Where little feet have romped and played each day.

O let my daily quest for beauty be
 In little things that are so dear to me.

BREAKFAST SUNSHINE

THIRD PRIZE POEM

By "Luckie" O'Warren

Golden honied light from the sky,
 Comes slanting through the window
 Covering whitened dishes and sparkling silverware.

A shimmering, honied air
 Soothing our souls with mellowed laughter
 Sharpening an appetite and dulling a temper.

GOD'S GREAT GOLDEN WEST

Norman Lilienthal

There's a land beyond the ranges,
 And it's God's Great Golden West,
 There's a land that never changes,
 For it's filled with peace and rest.

There are valleys broad and fertile,
 There are mountains, peak on peak.
 Where the roaring torrents hurtle
 From the hillside high and steep.

Some go eastward when they tire
 Of their life among the hills
 Where there's palaces of pleasure,
 And carnivals of thrills.

But for me, when I grow lonely,
 And my soul it longs for rest,
 There's just one, and one place only
 And it's God's Great Golden West.

North Central as a school owes the greater portion of its success in school affairs and its outstanding reputation to The News. The North Central News is of great value in making school projects successful as it is always a supporter of all school activities. By giving publicity to contests of all kinds, campaigns, Community Chest drives, it has exerted a very active effort in making North Central a leader among high schools.

Since its beginning in September, 1917, when Raphael Budwin was editor, The News has received national recognition. In January, 1922, The News was elected to membership in the Central Interscholastic Press Association. It was awarded first place as the best high school paper in the all-American contest in December, 1922. At that time Richard Marks was editor.

In the Central Interscholastic Press association contest for 1923, The News took first place in headlines and make-up. It was rated first in the National newspaper contest.

Sigma Delta Chi, Honorary journalistic society of the University of Washington, judged it as the best all-state high school paper in 1924 and 1925. It again received all-American rating in the spring of 1927. This last achievement was repeated in 1929.

This spring The News again received recognition in the Columbia Scholastic Journalism contest conducted by Columbia university in New York city.

Up to the present time there have been seven girl editors on The News staff. Those who have held the positions are: Eleanor Hyslop, Betty Bement, Evelyn Dralle, Jean Hazen, Twyla Blair, Margaret Green and Dorothy Breeden.

BUBBLES

Margaret Proff

Like so many bright hued bubbles
My golden dreams float high.
I forget all worldly troubles
As I stare into the sky.
And like so many bubbles bright
They burst and float away,
But their mist remains to light
The coming of the next new day.

Interclass competition held the field of debate during the spring semester.

Through this system more students were able to take part. Twenty-four gained practical experience.

"Resolved, That the present system of installment buying of consumption goods should be condemned, provided that the term does not apply to the purchase of homes, investment securities and insurance," was the question considered by the eight teams, an affirmative and negative for each class.

During the series of twelve debates, every affirmative team met every negative team. The sophomore negative team was the only group to finish the season undefeated.

All work was done under the supervision of Miss Greenawalt, debate coach. Each class however, had a student coach: Roy English for the seniors, Kenneth Baugh for the juniors, Ned Graves for the sophomores and Phillip Walborn for the freshmen.

Students comprising the senior team were: Affirmative, Guinevere Derrick, Orven Fischbach and Dan Harris; negative, Gwendolyn Derrick, Leon Wolfstone and Osbury Haller.

Junior team: Affirmative, Ben Avey, Langdon Nysoe and Mabel Shields; negative, Dick Scott, Earl Fossum and Mary Mills.

Sophomore team: Affirmative, Elnora Avey, William Lee and William Kranzush; negative, Frances Baugh, Alice Glassford and Gordon McLeod.

Freshman team: Affirmative, Marion Blanc, Betty Shaw and Geraldine Hawley; negative, Virginia Sanders, Lucille Lee and Grace Horton.

Each student taking part was given a personal rating. At the close of the interclass contest the three affirmative speakers and the three negative speakers with the highest rating were selected to make up two teams to debate in convocation on April 27.

The affirmative team was composed of Elnora Avey, sophomore; William Lee, sophomore; and Guinevere Derrick, senior. Earl Fossum, junior; Alice Glassford, sophomore; and Leon Wolfstone, senior; comprised the negative team.

Mr. Hawes acted as chairman and the judges were: Miss Clarke, Mr. Chandler and Mr. Bradford. The speaker who rated highest in the final debate was presented with a five dollar gold piece. The student rating second received a one dollar bill.

During the semester, the orchestra, under the direction of C. Olin Rice, has again proved to be one of North Central's outstanding organizations in offering splendid entertainment with its music as well as in cooperating with other groups in carrying out school activities.

The group presented a concert at Havermale junior high school and a double convocation for the student body of North Central.

Music for the class play and the Latin production, "Endymion," was provided by the organization.

The members of the orchestra are:

First violin—Eugene Adams, Robert Armstrong, Ruth Barnes, Robert Brandt, Bonita Burke, Howard Burger, George Finch, Lesley Frazier, Ruth Gladstone, Lillian Grimsrud, George Low, Lea Minsky, Dwight Persons, Lucille Vaughn, Del Waterhouse, Beatrice Watterud and Jack Woods.

Second violin—Glen Allen, Ethel Aune, Hene Fisher, Milton Haywood, Betty Heath, Florence Horton, June Jensen, Lawrence Lemon, Ruth Macomber, Armand McEwen, Elaine Myers, Irene Schumacher, Merlin Shaw, Galyord Zimmerman; bass violin, Florence Schweppe.

THE NORTH CENTRAL BAND

One hundred and two boys made up the personnel of the North Central Band for the spring term. Working within the full organization were smaller units; the saxophone band with 18 members, led by Bob Seymour and the pep band under the direction of Verrol Henry with 11 members.

Bandmasters for the semester were: Verrol Henry, Robert Seymour and Robert Brey. Francis Drinkard was business manager; Roger Bankson had charge of equipment; and Francis Pearson was assistant manager. George Davis, Neal Neuman and Jack Gunn were librarians with George as head. Walter C. Hawes is business adviser.

The seventeenth semi-annual concert given in the school auditorium on the evening of April 22 was the band's outstanding performance. Compositions in keeping with the Washington bicentennial were featured.

The overture and incidental music for the all-city grade school pageant presented in May at Natatorium park was provided by the North Central band.

Much of the credit for the excellent performances turned out by the organization is due to the expert leadership of Lowell C. Bradford.

Members of the band are:

Cornet—William Ellis, Jack Gunn, Verrol Henry, Neal Neuman, Russell Potter, Roy Ranniger, Donald Caulfield, Adrian Flower, Donald Garris, Herbert Kasemeyer, George Mueller, Marion Clapp, Milton Haywood, Robert Morrison, Judson Sexton, Richard Steiner, Robert Stone, Jack Banks, James Fulton William Gilbert, Harry Muchman, Kenneth Penchos, Royce Welch, Harley Yake.

Baritone—Robert Brey, Roy Vernstrom; Tuba—Morton Allen, Fred Goffinet, Melvin Walker; Sousaphone—Sherwood Blasdel, Albert Janch, Herschell Wright; Flute—Richard Bird, George Gunn; Oboe—Paul Gronemeier; Bassoon—Braundt Gessel.

ENDYMION

"Endymion," a three-act English play based on Greek mythology, was presented by the Latin classes, March 18.

The theme of the plot is the price of true friendship, and unfolds the story of a man's sacrifice of his dearest possession for a friend.

Artemis, the goddess of the chase and the moon, and Hermes, the tricky little messenger of the gods, take a hand in the destiny of four mortals: Phrynia, a Greek maiden; her lover, Prince Endymion; Eumenides, the boon companion of Endymion; and Kallisthene, betrothed to Eumenides.

Hermes, who has been wandering in the mortal world in search of mirth, thoroughly enjoys the clever little plan by which he and Artemis test the love of Prince Endymion and Phrynia and the real character of Eumenides, who gives up his dearest possession, his love for Kallisthene, to break the spell cast upon his friend, Endymion, by Artemis.

A cast of 42 took part in the presentation. The characters in the play were:

Prologue	Raymond Langenbach
Endymion	Gordon Johnson
Phrynia	Nellie Buxton
Eumenides	Clark Miller
Kallisthene	Ruth Hansen
King Aeolus	Scott Chatterton
Queen Hermia	Elizabeth Hyde
Artemis	Aimee Russell
Morpheus	Marie Sharpless
Hermes	Pauline Mauser
Pan	Jean True

The Greek maidens were, Gilda Pace, Betty Austin, Jean True and Mildred Wells. Lloyd Butler, Howard Barker, Joseph McCracken, Richard Scott and Willard Roe were the Greek youths.

The parts of the three priests were taken by Phillip Walborn, Charles Frazier and Roy Nelson. Pauline Stack and Eugenia Perry were the ladies-in-waiting to Queen Hermia. The part of the page was played by George Toulonse.

A large group took part in the dances. Artemis' maidens were: Frances Cole, Ruth Ofelt, Aileen MacCamy, Laura Hoefer, Lorena Ray, Margaret Hoefer and Grace Stahoski. Dryads were: Spokane Smith, Helen Brodrecht, Virginia Thomas, Jessie Symbol, Florence Forrester, Margaret Brady, Margaret Star-mont, Ruth Kuhlman and Genevieve Baltzell. Helen Dundee was the pianist.

Miss Prince and Miss Evans, Latin teachers, coached the production with the assistance of Mrs. Leonard. Much credit was due Miss Pinkham for the splendid dancing numbers.

Music for the evening was provided by the full orchestra under the direction of Mr. Rice, who composed the scores for the string instrumental numbers.

DELTA HI-JINX

Peppy musicians, graceful dancers and talented actors were featured on the bill of the eighteenth annual Hi-Jinx given by the Delta club, March 25 and 26.

Jazz numbers played by the North Central pep band, under the leadership of Verrol Henry, opened the show. Members of the band are: Verrol Henry, Bob Brey, Bob Hill, Bill Dibblee, Harold Langeloh, Dick Ellarson, Rodger Bankson, Don Briggs, Bob Seymour and Neal Newman.

Francis Pearson and Harold Hove, the masters of ceremonies, clowned between each act.

Helen Dundee played a piano solo. "A Rustic Courtship," a dance number, was given by Bud Jones and Bob Demick.

A trio, composed of Don Briggs, Sam Morten and Clayton Shea, sang a group of popular numbers. "Pokey Hontas," a thrilling pantomime, was presented by members of the club.

The "Dutch" and "Fran" orchestra, composed of Harold Hove, Francis Pearson, Howard Ranniger, Frank Lewis, Freeman Jensen and Adrian Flower, made their initial performance. Rodger Bankson and Mack Koon entertained with banjo music and foolishness.

The one-act playlet, "Amateurs," proved to be a dramatic success. The parts were: Nathaill Mossborough, Phil Peterson; Henry Douglass, Marshall Jones; Rosalind, Virgil Turner; Oliver, Charles Vedder; and Jenkins, Mack Koon.

The "Smarx Brothers," Grover Warren, Bill Melson and Claire Snyder, were included in the evening's entertainment. Marco Brusehi as "Little Paderewski" proved himself worthy of the name.

The Delta "follies" of 1932 was made up of 16 dainty maidens. The dancing beauties were: Dexter Dahlen, Mel Cullidge, Phil Peterson, Dick Bennion, Ed Lyon, Fred Rich, Vincent Sherman, Bill Melson, Armand McEwen, Jack Carey, Royce Welch, Gilbert Patrick, Pat Green, Dick Greenough, Max Tatman and Bill Nicholes.

All the members of the Delta club took part in the finale.

The Hi-Jinx managers were: Dexter Dahlen, general manager; Mack Koon, program; Jack Misselhorn, business manager, Bill Melson, advertising; and Bruce Weldon, properties.

STAGE CREW

One of the most valuable organizations at North Central is one of the least conspicuous.

The stage crew is responsible for the preparation of the stage for all convocations. During the semester work has been done in the super-structure of the stage. Much time was spent in rehanging the drops and curtains. The crew repaired the band stands and helped construct the set for the senior class play.

A competent staff has performed the duties during the spring term.

Roy Jones is stage manager and Art Davis is his assistant. The electrician is Harold Robinson and the curtain man is Lloyd Brunton. Bill Brown is flyman and Joe Kilmer is spot man.

ART DEPARTMENT

The department of fine arts at North Central contributes to the culture and usefulness of all students entering it to study.

Correct choices made in purchasing clothing, furnishings and automobiles are the result of art appreciation. Fine spacing and rhythmic lines may be found in the humblest accessories of the home as well as in beautiful garments, jewelry, glassware and other luxuries.

Problems are given in all art classes to

"The Lilies of the Field," a three-act English comedy by John Hasting Turner was presented by the senior dramatics class on the evenings of Friday and Saturday, May 13 and 14.

Action of the story centers about two birthday presents which Mrs. Rooke-Walter brings for her two granddaughters, Catherine and Elizabeth, the children of the Rev. John Head and his wife. The way in which the gifts are allotted and the complications that arise provide interesting material for the plot.

The cast in which the principal parts were double cast was:

The Rev. John Head

Raymond Cantrell, Dan Cartier Van Dissell
Ann Head

Virginia McMillon, Audrey Owen
Mrs. Rooke-Walter

Velma Johnson, Dorothy Breeden
Elizabeth Head

Jeanne Markert, Mildred Wells
Catherine Head

Dorris Yaeger, Ruth Hansen
Barnaby Haddon

Leland Ludeke, Osbury Haller
Bryan Ropes Bruce Weldon, Howard Barker

Lady Susan Rucker Belle White, Jane Allen
The Hon. Monica Flaue

Nellie Buxton, Wilma Mahoney
Violet — Wilma Mahoney, Nellie Buxton
Withers Scott Chatterton

The business staff for the production proved competent in handling the executive affairs. Howard Barker was business manager with Bruce Weldon and Robert Salter as his assistants. The publicity committee was headed by Dorothy Breeden. Those helping her were: Busby Swenson, Harlan Chinn and Marshall Jones. Convocation plans were handled by Belle White, Jane Allen and Osbury Haller.

The property committee consisted of Audrey Owen, manager; Wilma Mahoney and Virginia McMillon.

Ruth Hansen, Dorris Yaeger and Mildred Wells took care of the make up for the play. Jeanne Markert and Howard Burger had charge of the costumes. Harlan Chinn designed a new set and Lloyd Hondak and Busby Swenson helped with the construction.

Much credit for the success of the production was due this semester as in the past to the expert direction of Grace Douglas Leonard, dramatics coach at North Central.

Calendar

FEBRUARY:

1—How do you do boys and girls, how do you do; this is the voice of our great institution of learning, North Central high school, broadcasting from the pages of the famous annual, the Tamarack, and relating to you that this is the beginning of the new semester. We wish to announce that this term is bringing to a close the high school career of the largest class of senior A's ever collected into one group. Good luck to all.

2—North Central trounced Rogers Hi in basketball to the tune of 21-20. The game was played in our gym and it sure was a thriller.

4—Delt's launch The News campaign. Two hundred and thirty on honor roll for fall semester. I guess we're bright, hey what?

6—Skating at Wandermere today. Large crowds encountered the sweeping fluffy flakes and cut up on the glassy chilled liquid.

9—George Washington was honored at the P. T. C. banquet which was held in the cafe. Nearly 300 gathered for the affair.

13—Rogers Hi was stemmed by the N. C. hockey team in a slam-bang game at Wandermere by a score of 8-2. Sonnen garnered six scores for high point man.

15—A valentine frolic, sponsored by the Girls' League, was held in the cafe. One hundred seventy girls collected for the gathering.

16—A banquet, sponsored by the Associated Student councils and the Presidents' council, proved to be a great success. The purpose was to collect the leading students together in order to discuss school problems. Sixty-five attended.

17—Leola Wilson won the S. A. R. contest today for the school. The home room schedule went into effect today. It proved all right, but many complained of the second breakfast at eleven o'clock.

18—Gonzaga's Bullpups barely nosed out the Indians in today's casaba game by a score of 23-22. It was an exciting tiff from stem to stern.

19—In a patriotism convocation honoring George Washington, Houdon's bust of the Father of our Country was presented to the school.

22—George Washington's bicentennial birthday. No school today in order to honor the first president.

24—Senior A's gathered today for their first meeting. Registering and nominating officers was the business. Bob Seymour presided.

25—North Central wound up its basketball season today by dropping the last tilt to West Valley to the tune of 30-24.

29—Leap year day—Better watch out boys. Be on your guard.

MARCH:

1—Dorothy Oliver was elected president of the Associated Student councils. Congrats Dorothy. Phil Peterson is vice president, Bob Allison, secretary and Eunice Hunt, treasurer.

2—Initial opening of the recreational hour which is sponsored by the A. S. C. Three hundred students flocked out for a good time. Ping pong proved to be popular with all.

4—Senior A's meet again. Primary election was held. Bob Seymour and Howard Barker are left in the running for president. The Tamarack was discussed during the meeting.

8—"The Valiant" a one-act playlet was presented for the benefit of the P. T. C. at their meeting by members of the senior dramatics class.

9—The one-act play, "The Valiant" was again presented in a convocation today. It was well received. There are rumors that Bruce (Clark Gable) Weldon who took the part of Dyke, the convicted criminal, caused many tears to be shed by some of the fairer spectators.

10—"Rich Man, Poor Man," a one-act play, was presented in convocation by members of Mrs. Leonard's speech 2 class. The Tamarack staff was announced today. Lloyd Houdak is editor in chief. Margaret Carpenter is associate editor. Sports will be covered by Joe Shriver.

11—Another one-act play was presented by the senior dramatics class. "The Pot Boilers" was the name and it was a bang-up play.

12—Three girls, prominent in athletics, were selected to travel to Pullman to attend the play day. Claire Harris, Phyllis Carrieco and Ethel Aune were the ones that went.

17—Today is Irish day honoring good old St. Patrick, be gorra.

18—Bob Seymour was elected president of the senior A class today. Other officers are: Earl Neuru, vice president; Virginia Rooney, secretary and Don Briggs, treasurer. "Endymion" a three-act production was presented by the Latin students this evening. Dancing, music and drama featured the fine program which was given. "Are you still lis'nin' or sum'pin'."

24—Forty senior A's appeared on the senior A honor roll. Nellie Buxton and Audrey Davisson have had a straight A record throughout their high school career. Not so bad, I guess.

25—The Delta club's annual Hi-Jinx was presented in the N. C. Auditorium this evening. The Delts taking part of various creatures and punsters put on a good production.

26—The Hi-Jinx was given again tonight.

28—Mack Koon was elected president of the senior B class by winning out in the primaries.

31—Two Siberian elm trees were planted on the west side of the school today in tribute to Washington. A fitting ceremony accompanied the planting.

Armen:

1—Gosh! This is bad! April Fool's day and grades come out also. Oh well, it's not so bad after all. Two hundred forty made the honor roll.

2 to 11—Just what we needed, a good, restful and refreshing vacation.

11—Back to school again to start the last quarter. Only eight more weeks.

13—Senior A meeting for the purpose of getting measured for headgear and robes to be used at graduation.

14—First baseball game with Rogers Hi at Harmon field. Did you support the team? Announcement of season tickets for price of four-bits. Sixteen athletic contests for the mere sum of fifty cents, what a bargain this is. Home room discussion of school affairs today, did you contribute to the debating. Professor Watson gave an interesting talk with demonstrations concerning liquid air. Gosh! That stuff is cold! And how!

15—Track meet with Gonzaga today on our playfield. Did you attend the regatta of cinder stars?

18—Letter awards were given to the worthy casaba players today in a double convocation.

19—The International club presented another con today. I guess we're getting the low-down on the foreign countries these days.

20—Crooning reigned the air floating around school this diem. The chorus class presented a cantata called "Paul Revere's Ride" in con.

21—Students assembled in the auditorium today to give their auditory organs exercise by listening to harmonious melodies of the N. C. band.

22—This evening was the seventeenth semi-annual concert to be given in the history of the school. All of the presentations have been under the able leadership of Mr. Bradford. North Central tussled with the bullpups in baseball on our playfield. Good luck to the ball chasers.

26—Vocational convocation today.

28—Our braves battled with the Elsie's from across the creek. They engaged in the great American pastime called baseball. Three cheers to the scalping of the tigers.—"Are you still with me, O. K. let's continue." Oh yes! We talked pro and con (no not convocation) on improving the building and grounds during the home room debates. What did you suggest, huh?

29—This diem is the day. The Redskins are matching their muscle and leg power in a track tussle. Many first place events to warriors, that is, we hope.

May:

3—Say, this International club is a pretty good outfit at that. This day beholds its third presentation this semester or is it two, I forget, anyhow, they're all right.

4—Baseball today. Well, what about it? Oh! We exchange hits with the bullpups on their sand lot.

5—Ye old graduates of this honorable institute presented a convocation today (we had to pay a dime to see it, but it was worth it don't you think so?) Oh! you don't think? Well, you gotta admit the truth. The racketeers met today (oh, pardon me,) I mean the Indian and pup tennis teams. They exchanged piffs on the pups territory.

9—Ladies, gentlemen and senior A's we are announcing to you the second diamond tiff of the season featuring the Redskins and Tigers. The playground of the Elsie's was the scene of battle.

12—Mr. Hargreaves, president of Cheney normal enlightened unto our auditory organs a fine talk. The racket swingers of N. C. and Gonzaga engaged in an enticing tennis match on the pup courts.

13—Another diamond tussle with the Pirates today. Here's hoping the braves take the treasure wanted from the pirates. Good luck, gang! By the way, the senior class play was given or presented, oh have it your own way. Anyhow the play was dramatized (how's that) in the auditorium this evening.

14—The cinder stars have their day this diem. The great district regatta is given in order to select members for attending the in-terscholastic meet. Another dramatization of "Lilies of the Field" is tonight.

17—Another vocational con today. We've sure had some dandy, keen, fine and of course, some humorous speakers this semester. I enjoyed the talk, didn't you?

18—Ah! Some drama today, "Babbitt's Boy" was a presentation of Mrs. Leonard's speech 2 class in a convocation. More racket, that is, the Indian and Tiger tennis teams laughed in the annual battle.

19—Election time is near. The League and Federation had cons today for the campaigning of various candidates. Did you vote at the election. We tussle with the pups again today in a diamond tilt. Here's wishing success and happiness to Buckley's crew and, of course, to Jim also.

21—At last the diem has arrived. North Central's hopes for the Olympic contests travel to Pullman for the interscholastic regatta. Here's wishing good luck to the dust-raisers.

23—Boy! Was that a swell drama given by the senior dramatics class. It bears the name "Submerged."

24—Well, isn't that nice, the International club put on another foreign convocation today.

25—Today is the last of the series of dramatic cons presented by the senior dramatics class. "Matinata" was the one given in today's performance.

26—Today is the disension relating to the library situation during our home room periods. If you have any suggestions that will help, contribute them. By the way, if you know of any missing books you had better return them, please.

27—The baseball series is drawing to a close. The Braves tangle with the Pirates again. Get the treasure chest for keeps in this battle gang. This is your last chance.

30—No school today! Gee, it feels good to get away from the old grind. Gosh old hemlock! Only nine more days until graduation. Guess we better get our work checked up.
JUNE:

1—The first of June, gee, time sure is flying. We play our last diamond tussle with the Elsie's from across the creek on our own hunting grounds. Nothing could be sweeter than to scalp the Tigers on this beautiful diem.

1—Mr. Kennedy gave a fine talk in convocation on "Education for a Living."

5—Baccalaureate today. The Rev. Mr. Kochler delivered a fine oration. The clock clicks on as time goes on and graduation draws nearer and nearer.

7—Kid day! Gosh! Did we have fun and did we look crazy, goofy, nertz and nuts, but anyhow we had plenty of fun. And was that kid day con a riot. Well, this is our last day at old N. C. In a way we like to leave and in two ways we don't, but we'll leave as has always been the custom.

8—At last the day of our dreams has arrived. Graduation! We received our departing documents (in other words diplomas) at the Masonic temple. Well, the time has come to say goodbye. And now students of North Central and senior A's, now is the time to lend thine ears to an revoir, a bit of a cheerio, a toodle ooh, a fond goodbye, a tweet tweet and pleasant dreams. And that boys and girls winds up another semester in the history of our dear alma mater. This is Arthur Momiter, the famous author of this "Rise and Fall of Literature" speaking. Good night, all.

APRIL MOON
"Luckie" O'Warren

Suspending from a web of his tiny jewels
The white lantern beneath God's blue ceiling
Swathes us in its silver nectared light,
Setting our souls to swelling and our senses reeling.

SPRING
Margaret Proff

The world is laughing!
The world is gay!
It's a happy life,
'Tis spring today!

No matter the future,
Forget your past.
Happiness is fleeting,
The day is fast.

Don't cry over trifles,
They soon pass away.
Forget all troubles,
Be happy today.

There'll be sorrow tomorrow
The world'll be sad;
But tomorrow ne'er comes,
So laugh and be glad.

The sun is shining,
The birds sing away,
The world thrills with joy
For 'tis spring today!

GRUB STREET

Grub Street is the name of a famous old street in London where many of England's best authors lived at one time. The club endeavors to promote and develop literary talent among the boys.

Each meeting consists of a program of the original work of two of the members. Individually, the members contribute to the Grub Street column in The News.

OFFICERS

Earl McSteen	President
John Ziegweid	Vice President
Lloyd Jorgenson	Secretary
Harold Luck	Treasurer

AVIATION CLUB

To promote interest in aviation among North Central students and to prepare its members to take their places in the rapidly growing industry is the purpose of the Aviation club.

The members have bought shares in a glider and are allowed to fly it. The club has recently become a member of the Spokane Glider club. Talks on aviation are given at the meetings, and model plane contests have been staged.

Phil: Once my musical talent saved my life.

Bill: How was that?

Phil: You remember that big flood on the Mississippi a few years back? Well, my father and I lived on some bottom land and when the levee broke loose, our house was swept away. Dad jumped on the dining table and floated down the river to New Orleans.

Bill: Yes, but where does your musical talent come in?

Phil: Well, I accompanied him on the piano.

Green: What makes you think that blonde you've been taking out taxicab riding has been playing you for a fish?

Misselhorn: I just found out she was married to the driver.

Basketball Squad

Basketball

North Central's basketball team was a little slow in getting started this season but once having tasted victory finished the rest of the schedule in very good fashion.

Coach Buckley developed a fine group of sophomore players who will all be eligible for play next year and some of them will be in the ranks for two seasons.

In all, the Indians played fourteen games and won four. Predictions for a classy outfit next year are in order; five lettermen will start the loop season in the Red and Black lists.

The city series standings.

	Won	Lost
Gonzaga	7	2
Lewis and Clark	5	3
North Central	3	6
Rogers	3	7

FIRST GAME

North Central opened its 1931-32 basketball season by taking a trip to West Valley. The Eagle quintet was in perfect form and won a close mix by 2 points.

The score at the half was 11-3. It was not until the second half that the Indians started putting some shots through the loop. A few seconds before the end of the game found the Red and Black only two tallies behind. They were unable to make the tying basket, however, and the game ended with the Eagles ahead 23-21.

Jones and Misselhorn lead the point-getters with six apiece.

FIRST SERIES GAME

The Indians met the Panthers in the first city series game in the North Central gym. The Redskins lead the scoring in the first half but were not able to tally in the last two quarters. Score at end of the half was 10-4, at end of the third quarter was 10-6. The Panthers shot their winning baskets in the last period and held the Indians scoreless for the entire last half.

Final totals were 10-14 with the Redskins on the short end.

NORTH CENTRAL-COEUR D'ALENE

North Central journeyed to Coeur D'Alene to play the strong Lake City quintet. The game was played in the Coeur D'Alene high school gym with the Indians coming out on the short end of a 31-21 score.

The score at half time was 11-1, but the Redskins started dropping shots in the last half and tallied 17 times before the game ended. In the meantime the home team had been busy shooting and had a total of 31-21 at the final whistle.

Walsh and Misselhorn shared scoring honors for the Indians.

SECOND CITY GAME

Gonzaga's Bullpups proved to be too much for the Indians in the second game of the city series, and the North Central quintet was defeated after a hard battle. The game was played in the home gym.

At the end of the first half the Indians were behind 11-3 but tallied ten points to their opponents eight to make the score at the finish 13-19.

Walsh and Sherwood split even on high scoring honors.

INDIANS MEET TIGERS

The Redmen met their ancient rivals from across the creek in the first tussle of a five game series in the Tiger gym. Before the rest period the score was about even but in the last half the Indians could not keep up with the Lewis and Clark team and were behind 28-18 at the gun.

Turner, sophomore guard, lead the North Central offense.

PANTHERS-REDSKINS MIX

North Central won its first city series game from the Panthers. After losing the first three city games the Indians came back strong and showed a fine brand of basketball in defeating the Hillyard team 19-18.

At half time the Indians were trailing 15-6 but in the last half they started a rally which put them into a one point lead just before the gun. The game was one of the thrillers of the season. Although there were many slips made by both teams the spirit and fight shown demonstrated the North Central "will to win."

Misselhorn lead the scoring with nine points.

NORTH CENTRAL MEETS TIGERS

Indians versus Tigers always means lots of fight and excitement. The fans were not disappointed in the second mix of these two teams. Lewis and Clark lead the scoring at the rest period by five points and held on to the margin the rest of the tilt.

Coach Buckley tried a new lineup in this game, and although they did not win they looked mighty good, and most of them will be back next year.

Turner topped the scoring list for the Red and Black team.

REDSKINS WIN

North Central met the Bullpups for the second time in the city series tussle and defeated them after a neck and neck race for the lead in the final seconds. The Indians lead the scoring throughout the game but only by a very narrow margin. At the half they lead 10-6, and the best the Gonzagans could do in the last half was to cut the Indians' lead to three points making the totals 17-13 at the finish.

FINAL GAME WITH THE TIGERS

In meeting the Tigers in the third tilt the Indians had to win in order to make the last two games of the five game series necessary. As determined to win the game as was the Indians the Tigers were equally determined to sew up the series with three straight wins. After a thrilling tussle the Tigers managed to eke out a 17-15 win.

The score at midpoint was tied at eight apiece with both teams struggling for the lead. The South Siders, due to Geraghty's shooting, won out in the last minute.

Turner was high point man for the Indians.

INDIANS WIN AGAIN

In meeting the John R. Rogers high basketball team the Indians played an old team with a new name for its school. The Hillyard school had moved into the new Rogers building.

In winning this game the Indians won the three game series from Rogers. After losing the first game the Indians won the next two and both by a margin of one point. The North Central quintet lead throughout the game but narrowly nudged the Panthers out at the gun.

Jones walked off with the scoring honors in this battle.

LAST GAME OF SERIES

North Central tried hard to down the league leaders in their last game of the season but to no avail. Victory for the Indians would have given the three game series with Gonzaga to North Central.

Both teams were determined to win and the Bullpups nosed the Indians out by one tally; the final score being 23-22.

At no time was one team more than a few points in the lead and the outcome was in doubt until the whistle. This was the last game of the city series and was played in the North Central gym.

Jones garnered scoring honors with eight tallies after his name.

EAGLES VICTORIOUS

In the last scheduled game of the 1932 season the West Valley team defeated the Indians in a game that was remarkable for its long shots and close guarding. The home team put up a brave fight, but the shots of Byram from the center of the floor proved too much as he made several from that point.

Wassenaar lead the offense of the North Central five.

That ends the list of scheduled games for the 1921-32 season.

ALL CITY TEAM

The North Central News sport staff, after due consideration and a review of the entire season by way of the score book, finally announced their selection of an all-city team. The selections were based on points scored by each player, on fouls and on the value of the player to his team.

The first team selections:

Geraghty—Forward	Lewis and Clark
Moliter—Forward	Gonzaga
Jones—Center	North Central
Misselhorn—Guard	North Central
Devlin—Guard	Gonzaga

The second team selections:

Wassenar—Forward	North Central
Turner—Forward	North Central
Reilly—Center	Gonzaga
Mathers—Guard	Rogers
Stongh—Guard	Rogers

Coach Buckley developed a fine string of underclassmen this year and will have the foundation of a strong team back for another season of competition.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL TEAM

North Central finished in a tie for second place with Gonzaga, each having lost three and won nine games.

Outlook for a winning team looked dismal to Coach Edge when the turnout for a freshman basketball team was called. All the men were new and had had no experience in playing basketball. After training the men and much practice had taken place, the city series started. The freshmen lost their first two games. Were they discouraged? They were not. In playing the last ten games of the series they lost only one, this to Lewis and Clark.

Coach Edge deserves the credit for the fine showing the frosh made and has been highly complimented on his ability as a basketball coach.

The freshmen also played two out of town games. Both were against the strong Cheney junior high who have suffered only one defeat in the past two seasons.

In the first game the Cheney players walloped the Papooses to the tune of 20-4. In the second game the Indians led until the final seconds when a field goal put the visitors into a one point lead that they managed to hold on to for the remaining time. This close tussle ended in a fight for the ball with the Cheney squad ahead 14 to 13.

Renner was high scorer for the frosh season and was the mainstay and heart of the team in many stiff battles. He was ably backed up by Lavendar, Miller, Randall and Barnhart.

The games and scores of the season are:

North Central	12	Havermale	32
North Central	13	Gonzaga	14
North Central	14	Lewis and Clark	7
North Central	22	Hillyard	10
North Central	4	Cheney	20
North Central	26	Havermale	9
North Central	25	West Valley	19
North Central	16	Lewis and Clark	22
North Central	20	Libby	6
North Central	18	Gonzaga	16
North Central	24	Rogers	14
North Central	29	Libby	14
North Central	36	West Valley	13
North Central	13	Cheney	14

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL

After traversing the full length of the interclass schedule, the seniors emerged victorious but not unscathed. They had won six and lost only one game of the series. The freshmen, led by Renner, defeated them in the last game to force them into a tie for first place with the senior A's.

The juniors won the playoff, however, after a great deal of trouble as the score of 26-16 would indicate.

Olson and Van Lippeloy starred for the champions throughout the schedule and Olson was high scorer for the league.

More enthusiasm was shown in connection with the interclass games this winter than has ever been evidenced before. More than eighty boys took part in the games at one time or other and every team had an enthusiastic crowd of supporters to spur them on.

The boys who played on the championship team are: Van Horn, Bennion, O'Malley, Thompson, Van Lippeloy, Weldon, Ed Anderson, Reckord.

The boys who are largely responsible for the high position of the senior A's in the league are: Green and Patrick. Green was in third place in the league scoring list and proved invaluable to his team. Second place team is composed of Snyder, Patrick, Peterson, Anderson, Newman, Prescott, Green.

Green, Patrick, Newman and Snyder, all senior A's, held third, fourth, fifth and sixth places in the interclass scoring list.

Track Team

Track

When the call for track men was issued, more men turned out than for any sport in the last several years. One hundred and ten were at the first meeting and about twenty five or thirty signed by the time outdoor practice was taking place.

Although there were only six lettermen the large number of rookies furnished much promising material for a winning team.

GONZAGA-NORTH CENTRAL

The first meet of the season was against the Bullpups on the home field. In this meet the Redskins ran away with all of the races except the 880 and won ten first places out of the fourteen events.

Boys that looked especially good in the Gonzaga meet were: Don Hahn, Oliver Johnson, Bob Demick, Vincent Sherman, Fred Rich, Earl Neurn and Tom Ellis.

The summary:

100 yards—Won by Hahn, N. C.; second, Sherman, N. C.; third McBreen, G.; time, 10.5 seconds.

880 yards—Won by Yoder, G.; second, Rich, N. C.; third, Anderson N. C.; time, 2 minutes 15 seconds.

220 yards—Won by Sherman, N. C.; second, Hahn, N. C.; third, McBreen, G.; time 23.8 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Carey, N. C.; second, O'Brien, G.; third, Moliter, G.; time, 18.8 seconds.

440 yards—Won by Johnson, N. C.; second, Buchanan, G.; third, Ellis, N. C.; time, 56.8 seconds.

Mile run—Won by Rich, N. C.; second, Wassenar, N. C.; third, Royce, G.; time, 5 minutes 30.5 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Neurn, N. C.; second, Hurley, G.; third, O'Brien, G.; time, 29.5 seconds.

Shot put—Won by Cain, G.; second, Hammond, N. C.; third, Hoover, N. C.; distance, 39 feet $\frac{1}{2}$ inch.

Discus—Won by Day, G.; second, Hammond, N. C.; third, Moberg, N. C.; distance, 103 feet 10 inches.

Javelin throw—Won by Demick, N. C.; second, Kingen, N. C.; third, Cain, G.; distance, 143 feet 3 inches.

High jump—won by Gorman, G., and Dibblee, N. C. (tied); third, White G.; height, 5 feet 4 inches.

Broad jump—Won by Cain, G.; second, Kingen, N. C.; third, Johnson, N. C.; distance, 18 feet 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

880-yard relay—Won by North Central (Hahn, Johnson, Ellarson and Sherioun).

COEUR D'ALENE-NORTH CENTRAL

Victory was awarded to the Indians for the second consecutive time this year when the home team outran the Coeur d' Alene track team on the North Central field.

The Braves made a clean sweep of all track events winning all first places in eight events. Coeur d' Alene retaliated by taking all of the field events to make the scoring close. The final count was 72-50.

100-yard dash—Sherman (NC), first; Hahn (NC), Ellerson (NC), Time, 10.4.

880-yard run—Anderson (NC), first; Richard (C), Chicha (NC), Time 2:11.8.

220-yard dash—Hahn (NC), first; Ellerson (NC), Welch (NC), Time 23.2.

(NC), second; Phillips (C), third. Distance: 147 feet.

Half mile relay—North Central first; (Ellerson, Callahan, Sherman, Hahn) Time: 1:39.4.

N. C.—L. C. TRACK MEET

North Central met the Tiger track team on the home field. The Indians went into the meet as the under dog with the Lewis and Clark squad doped to win by twenty or twenty-five points. The meet was close with the final results unknown until the last event had been run. The Tigers won by nine points the score being $56\frac{1}{2}$ to $65\frac{1}{2}$.

Lewis and Clark refused to run the relay race and forfeited it to North Central. The races were all close with the Indians winning six out of fourteen first places. The relay race between the Tiger and Redskin team has been won by the Red and Black team every year since Mr. Taylor has been at North Central.

100-yard dash—Sherman, N. C., first; Hahn, N. C. second; Ott, L. C., third. Time, 10.5 seconds.

220-yard dash—Ott, L. C., first; Hahn, N. C., second; Sherman, N. C., third. Time 23.4 seconds.

440-yard run—Ott, L. C., first; Johnson, N. C., second; Nelson, L. C., third. Time, 56 seconds.

880-yard run—Leedesten, L. C., first; Pehlstrom, L. C., second; Cooper, L. C., third. Time, 2 minutes 10 seconds.

Mile run—Guyer, L. C. first; Kennedy, L. C., second; Rich, N. C., third. Time, 4 minutes 53.5 seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Yeager, N. C., first; Carey, N. C., second; Marshall, L. C., third. Time, 18 seconds.

220-yard low hurdles—Hahn, N. C., first; Neuru, N. C., second; Dietrich, L. C., third. Time 28.3 seconds.

High jump—Bennington and Rauw, L. C., tied for first; Moberg, N. C., and Marshall, L. C., tied for third. Height, 5 feet 6 inches.

Pole vault—Yeager, N. C., first; Demick, N. C., and Greenameyer, L. C., tied for second. Height, 10 feet.

Discus—Bley, L. C., first; Hammond, N. C., second; Violett, L. C., third. Distance, 117 feet 2 inches.

Javelin—Kingen, N. C., first; Violett, L. C., second; Daly, L. C., third. Distance, 142 feet.

Relay, forfeited to North Central.

TIGERS TAKE DISTRICT MEET

North Central put up a fine fight for the district track championship but was unable to nose Lewis and Clark from first place. Five men went to Pullman from among the Indian ranks to represent Spokane and North Central in the state meet.

Sherman won the 100-yard dash, Hahn won the low hurdles and Yeager was victorious in the high hurdle race. Kingen won the only first place in the field events for the Redskins by throwing the javelin 152 feet $9\frac{1}{2}$ inches.

The Indian relay team won the relay by nearly seventy yards. Those that ran were: Sherman, Welch, Ellarson and Hahn.

Hahn, in winning the low hurdle race, tied the city record of 25.8.

Sherman, Hahn, Kingen and Yeager composed the Indian delegation to the state meet. Only first place winners were sent to the state meet this year. In former years first and second placements were sent. This change cuts the number of entrants in half and makes a one day meet out of it.

Carl Quackebush of Rogers was selected as the coach for the state team from this district.

HOCKEY

Hockey became an organized sport at North Central during the fine skating weather which was so plentiful last winter. Although the sport was not organized until late in the year there was still time for several games to be played.

The Gonzaga university frosh team was the first to fall before the Indian skaters. North Central won the battle by the one sided score of 16-6. The next victim was the Rogers high sextet who were scalped by the Braves in an 8-2 tussle.

In playing the Lewis and Clark team the Indians went up against an experienced team that had not been beaten and were leading the city hockey league with no defeats.

After a terrific struggle the Indians won 4-2. Hugh Sommen, small but mighty hockey star, captained the North Central team and was largely responsible for all of the victories.

Large turnouts of students witnessed these hockey games and enthusiasm ran high among the skaters. If good skating weather could be depended upon, hockey would become a letter sport in the city schools.

Those boys who played hockey last year are: Hugh Sommen, captain; Andrew Terra, Joe Shriver, Ned Graves, Melvin Lockart, Bob Bartlett, Bob Peterson, Kenneth Loeffler, Ben Johnson, Phil Peterson and Adam D.

Baseball

Archie Buckley issued a call for baseball players and about fifty boys answered. As the spring weather was rather late, the squad was cut to twenty players within two weeks.

Five lettermen were back, three of whom were hurlers. Anderson, Godfrey and Jones composed the veteran pitching staff while Sam Morton and Pat Green were the nucleus about which an infield and outfield were built.

FIRST SERIES GAME

The first game of the season was played on the Rogers field at Hillyard. Although the Indians went to the game the under team of the time they came out with a 9-6 win with comparative ease.

Ed Anderson pitched the game and Clatterton ruled behind the batter. Godfrey relieved on the mound in the eighth inning and finished the game. George Baff did a fine job of holding down the first sack position and Max Schoening worked well in the hard sack. Best of these men got three hits from Jones, the Pirates' pitcher.

Anderson got on base three times out of four times at bat and accounted for three runs.

The rest of the men who contributed to victory

to the first Indian baseball victory of the year were: Sam Morton, shortsop; Bill Evans, second base; Bud Jones, Francis O'Malley and Pat Green in the outfield.

GONZAGA-NORTH CENTRAL.

North Central tightened its hold on the city series championship in the second game of the series by virtue of a 9-6 win over the Bullpups. Although there were numerous errors, in general, a fine brand of baseball was played.

Anderson clouted a homer in the second inning with Schoening and Green getting hold of three and two base nudges later in the fourth inning. The score was tied at two all at the beginning of the fourth inning. At that time the Indians put on their war paint and went to work. When the dust cleared away the Braves had run in five tallies.

One of the features of the game was a double play unassisted by Sam Morton. He caught a hot liner from a Gonzaga batsman and snagged a runner off second before he could get back to base.

Ed Anderson was the hitting star for the Indians getting two hits, two walks and bringing in four scores. In the past two games Anderson has been at bat eight times and accounted for seven of his team's scores.

INDIANS ARE DEFEATED

In the second game with Gonzaga the Indians tasted defeat for the first time of the series. After winning three straight the Red and Black team dropped a loosely played contest to the Bullpups.

It was the old story of the over-confident ball team going up against one determined to win. The game was played on the Gonzaga field. The field was very rough and many of the plays that should have been easy put outs became hits, or errors on the fielders.

Jones started in the pitcher's box but was relieved by Anderson in the fourth inning. North Central got ten hits while the Pups had eight. In this game the Indians had thirteen men die on base.

Mills got a two base hit into left field for the only long hit of the Indian squad.

INDIANS SCALP TIGERS

Superior ball playing and fine team work were the principle factors in the victory of the Indians over the Tiger ball team. The Tigers were touted as having the edge over the Red and Black team but on the field they did not look nearly as well as the Indians. Final score was 5-1.

The game was more or less of a pitcher's duel as Godfrey fanned ten batters and C.

Muzatko, the Tiger hurler, struck out fifteen. North Central came through the game with six hits while the South Siders were allowed only three.

Two double plays by the Braves made the game faster and staved off the attempts of the Tigers to score. Schoening caught a hot fly on third base and threw to Evans on the second sack to force Geraghty out. Godfrey made the second double play possible when he caught a bunt on the fly and tossing to first caught a runner off base.

A heavy rain started in the seventh inning and the umpire, Ted Williams, called the game in the middle of the eighth inning.

RED AND BLACK TRIUMPHS

North Central ball players met and defeated the Roger horsehide punishers in a sloppy but exciting game on the North Central playfield. The score was tied at seven all in the seventh. The Indians managed to get three hits in a row in the eighth, scoring two runs and knocking Hal Jones of Rogers from the mound. The game ended with the Indians on the longer end of 9-7 score.

Godfrey was starting pitcher but was removed in the third inning after being hit several times. He was still pitching well but he had a sore arm and was removed for this reason.

Jones went into the game to relieve Godfrey and pitched a fine game. He also batted one thousand percent. At bat three times and got three hits. The Indians rattled the Roger pitchers for eleven hits while the Pirates gathered six hits.

INDIANS DEFEATED

For the second time the Indians stubbed their toes in the city series tussle. This time the Tigers proved to be too much for the Redskin horsehide swatters in a stiff game at the fair grounds.

The contest was close all the way to the eighth inning. Very few errors were made and a good brand of ball was in evidence. In the eighth inning Godfrey allowed two walks at the start of the inning. A three bagger and a couple of singles with a wild throw or two mixed in gave the Tigers a five run lead as the score was tied at two all until at the end of the seventh.

The Indians tried hard to make up the difference in the score in the first half of the ninth but two runs were the best they could do.

Lewis and Clark's ball swatters hit nine times while the Braves rattled six hits off Muzatko.

Muzatko struck out twelve men and Godfrey struck out five. Jones relieved Godfrey on the mound and struck out the last batter in the disastrous eighth inning.

The final score of the contest was 7-4.

INDIANS TAKE PUPS

North Central's crack ball team opened up and took the Pups down the line to a 6-5 setback. Two home runs and several long hits made the game one of intense interest from start to finish.

Gonzaga started the scoring with a rush in the first inning. Cain hit a ground ball to short and got on safely after Mills fell down and was unable to throw to first. Koch got a walk, two outs and two on base. The next batter, Day of Gonzaga, got hold of a long hit into center field for two bases and scored Cain and Koch.

In retaliation the Indians came to bat determined to close up the gap in the score and got right to work. Schoening hit a grounder to third and got on safe after the third baseman threw wildly to first. A few seconds later the same play was repeated with Anderson hitting the grounder and Schoening got around to third on a bad throw. With two men on base Chatterton stepped into the batter's box and clouted a long hit that cleared the road on the outside of the left field fence.

Neither team scored in the third inning but North Central scored once in the fourth after Schoening and Godfrey got long hits into right field. Gonzaga crossed the home rubber once in the fifth after Giesa hit a grounder through short and then scored on a long fly into center field by Pupo.

The Redskins were able to tally once in the sixth when Stan was walked and scored after a wild throw was made to third. No runner crossed the plate in the seventh inning.

Another home run in the eighth nearly spelled disaster for the Indians but the circuit clout over the right field fence scored only two runs.

Gonzaga was unable to score in the ninth and the Indians did not go to bat in that inning. North Central got five hits and the Pups marked up four. Godfrey, the winning pitcher, struck out ten men and passed four. McDonald, of Gonzaga, fanned five and passed three.

Ernest Edge was appointed tennis coach for the spring session of tennis matches. He produced a fine team and although the team did not win every match it played, all of the contests were close with the opposing team winning by only one match.

Only three lettermen returned for the team this spring therefore nearly all of the material finally used to form a team was inexperienced. The men who were back for the second year were Mark Koehler, Harold Hove and Lloyd Jorgenson. All of these boys received letters for their second year of participation in the sport. Bill Fox was also awarded a first year letter for tennis.

Bill Fox was one of the new men of the team this spring and did exceptionally well. He and Lloyd Jorgenson worked well together in the double matches and were one of the hardest pair to beat in the prep school league.

Ed Woellner was another man new to the team and who deserved praise for the splendid work he has done on the tennis team. He worked hard and tried his best to win matches for the Red and Black.

List of matches

North Central Won 4-1 over Couer d' Alene.

North Central Lost 0-7 to Spokane University.

North Central Lost 4-3 to Rogers.

North Central Lost 5-2 to Coeur d' Alene

North Central Won 5-4 Over West Valley

North Central Lost 4-3 to Gonzaga

The city series games seemed to hold some sort of a jinx for the Indian tennis men. In the match with Rogers the Indians had the contest sewed up and the Pirates escaped from the bag. The score stood three matches apiece and the Indians were leading in the last doubles match by the score of 4-1. The Redskin players let up a bit in what seemed a sure match and the Pirates ran out on them 6-4.

The same thing happened in the match against the Bullpups. Each school had won three matches and the score in the last doubles match stood 5-2, North Central. Something happened again and the Pups won the match 7-5 and won the contest.

Coach Edge built a remarkably fine team around his three lettermen and only hard luck kept them from winning all of their matches. The first match was played with Coeur d' Alene on the Coeur d' Alene courts. The matches were close with North Central winning. When the losers of this tilt came to Spokane for a return match they found a team tired out from the city series matches that had been played the previous day. Coeur d' Alene won 5-2.

Because of the continuous rain and the sand courts, the Indian tennis men had only a few days in which to prepare for the scheduled matches. North Central will lose all of the tennis lettermen through graduation but many of the players that had experience this spring will be raring to go next spring and a fairly good lot of material should be on hand.

Those boys that were actively playing on the tennis squad were: Mark Koehler, Don Mundy, Harold Hove, Adam Dunlop, Earl Ferrier, Richard Dashback, Lloyd Jorgenson, Ed Woelener, John Newman, Bill Fox, Art Achre, Tom Corbett, Mgr; Bob Stone and Lloyd Butler.

GOLF

CITY GOLF SERIES

The race for the Review golf trophy, won last year by the Lewis and Clark team, was one of intense interest and fight from the very start.

The season started with twenty boys turning out for the golf team. Two weeks before the matches the squad was cut to ten men and later to nine. Seven men and manager received letters for the sport.

Those who got letters were: Joe Brownlow, captain; Harold Haberman, Bill Witherspoon, Freeman Jensen, Forest Bishop, Jack Winston and Bob Johnson.

Joe Shriver received the manager's letter. Joe was appointed by Mr. Kennedy to take charge of the golf team as he was very busy and could not officially take care of the team until after the matches had started. Joe acted as instructor and coach of the team and was largely responsible for the remarkably fine showing that the team made.

Joe Brownlow is a three-year veteran and one of the classiest ball sockers ever playing on the Indian team. Harold Haberman played on the golf team year before last but was not able to join the ranks in last year's competition and will be getting his first golf letter this spring. Witherspoon is also one of last year's men and has won the majority of his matches this spring.

FIRST MATCHES OF SERIES

North Central met Gonzaga in the first match of the city series race and was defeated by the narrow margin of 11-5.

The Indian players were off form and lay their defeat to the tricky greens and bad putting. Forest Bishop was the only man on the team to win three points from his opponent. He shot an 85 which is a remarkably good score for the difficult Manito course.

INDIANS SCALP PIRATES

The Redskin ball sockers caught up on points when they played the Roger sextet. The home team lost only one point and won seventeen. Jensen was the only one who did not make a clean sweep of his points. He was down the first nine holes and came back to win the last nine and eighteen.

Joe Brownlow and Harold Haberman were medalist for the day with 75 and 78 which is good golf.

REDSKINS AND TIGERS

In the first match against Lewis and Clark the Indians were nosed out by only the last possible stroke to finish. The matches were even nearly all of the time with the Indians leading at the first nine mark.

Brownlow and Haberman won the first nine from their opponents but lost the match and the last nine. Their opponents at Lewis and Clark are the toughest players in the league and consistent par shooters.

As in all of the previous matches Forest Bishop kept up his fine record of losing no points. To date he has not lost a point and has made a clean sweep of all his matches.

Jack Winston also won all of the matches that he has participated in this spring.

BRAVES VERSUS ROGERS

Once again the Indian ball sockers defeated the Rogers players by a large margin. North Central men lost only one match and beat the Pirate players 15-3. All of the men but Jensen won their matches and took three tallies from their opponents.

INDIANS DEFEAT GONZAGA

Led by Captain Joe Brownlow, the North Central golfers totally outclassed the Gonzaga pellet-pounders, and won, 10 to 6. Brownlow and Bob Johnson, playing first and sixth positions for the Indians, were the only men to take three points, but all the Redskins except Bill Witherspoon took at least one tally from their Gonzaga opponents. The Braves were decidedly on in this meet and some exceptionally low scores were turned in. Brownlow and Harold Haberman shot 76's in winning their matches for the Red and Black.

List of matches:

Girls' Athletics

TENNIS

Tennis ended a profitable season with four inter-school tournaments played according to schedule. The team was composed of twenty-eight girls who signed up and attended practices before and after school.

Miss Pinkham appointed Jean True, captain and Dorothy Corey, manager.

April 17 and 18 were the dates for the first West Valley tournament and May 14 the return match took place. The girls also played Hillyard, May 14 and Coeur d'Alene, May 29.

Margaret McGee is the only girl graduating from the team, thus leaving good material for next season's team.

BASEBALL

Baseball season fell into swing with seventy-five girls reporting for the first practice early in April. Six teams played through the tournament beginning, May 5 and ending, May 20.

One hundred and nine girls turned out for the interclass volleyball tournament which was run off in the form of a double round robin, each team playing each other twice.

The seniors earned the top place, leading the league at all times. They were beaten only twice; once by the juniors and once by the sophomore B's.

This semester a variation of the regular volleyball game was used. A player employs only one hand and is allowed to bounce the ball once. One person may touch the ball three times and she may pass it to another squad member, all in one play.

Officers were chosen by Miss Pinkham and Miss Jahreiss. The following girls served as captains: Freshman, Margaret Hoefler; sophomore B, Evelyn Spencer; sophomore A, Myrtle Kull; junior, La Verne Freegord; senior, Lucile Avey, Geraldine Smith and Opal Petzner were managers.

Comparative standings for the competition which was run off March 14 and March 24 are as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Senior	6	2	.750
Sophomore A	6	3	.666
Sophomore B	6	4	.555
Junior	4	4	.500
Freshman	0	8	.000

The girls on the top three teams were awarded five, four and two points respectively toward the new athletic emblem. Captains, chairman and managers received ten points and all those who turned out for all practices and all games received thirty points.

Those on the winning team were: Odell Ransbottom, Isabel Boot, Bebe Lake, Marguerite Williams, Claire Harris, Ethel Anne, Lucille Avey, Marjorie Carrol, Violet Crane, Marie Evans, Ruth Meyers, Naomi Howard.

QUOTTENNIS

Quoitennis or deck tennis as it is usually called is a new game in school but its popularity is gaining. In answer to the announcement of Miss Pinkham and Miss Jahreiss nearly fifty girls turned out for the tournament.

Florence Forrester was chosen manager and Doris Welker, chairman. Play began late in April with twelve entrants in the singles and thirty-two in the doubles. As soon as a girl lost one match she was eliminated from the tournament.

Those who signed up for the singles are: Ethel Anne, Marguerite Williams, Marguerite Mehler, Lucille Sapp, Doris Welker, Ada Mae Lyon, Claire Harris, Ruth Meyers, Isabelle Boot, Evelyn Spencer, Lucile Avey and Evelyn Kull.

Girls who entered in the doubles tournament are: Evelyn Spencer and Melda Glatfelly, Doris Welker and Agnes Tonsen, Ethel Anne and Claire Harris, Evelyn Kull and Marion Blanc, Mona Carter and Lillian Rodgers.

Marguerite Mehler and Ada Mae Lyon, Marie Corvi and Helen Stack, Geraldine Smith

Girls' Baseball

and Dorothy Anderson, Flora Faraca and Paula Wright, Myrtle Kull and Marcelle Johnson, Leona Hyland and Marguerite Williams, Marie Evans and Violet Crane, Florence Forrester and Betty Peterson, Lucille Sapp and Ruth Meyers, Margaret Rodgers and Muriel Nevdahl, Lucille Avey and Yvonne Gerimonte.

TRACK

After practices in the gym classes throughout the last quarter, a large number of girls competed in the annual track meet May 23. Selected by Miss Pinkham and Miss Jahreiss, Mary Elton acted as chairman and Ursula Porta as manager.

In track events the following races were run off: 50-yard dash, 75-yard dash, 220-yard run and interclass relay. Competition in field events covered the broad and high jump, the baseball, basketball and javelin throw. A girl was allowed to enter any other three contests and the relay.

Graduating girls who entered the meet for the last time are: Margaret Somerville, Marie Evans, Ruth Myers, Lucille Avey, Isabelle Boot, Yvonne Lamb, Claire Harris, Laura Hofer, Marguerite Sperry, Marguerite Williams and Violet Crane.

HIKING

Every other Saturday morning, a group of girls meet at the South entrance with lunch and carfare for the regular hike of ten miles, more or less.

This semester, Miss Johnson of the commercial department was faculty director and June Armstrong, student leader. On their trips they visit such places as the Bowl and Pitcher, Nine Mile, Five Mile, Boulder Beach and Indian Canyon.

The girls who attended practically all the hikes are: June Armstrong, Bessie Barnes, Marian Blanc, Gloria May Foss, Evelyn Kull, Myrtle Kull, Leila Mahoney, Olga Scharwat,

GOLF

Twenty North Central girls practice golf every Saturday morning at the Downriver golf course under the instruction of Joe Shriver.

The group is organized in the form of a club with dues of twenty-five cents. Miss Everett is faculty director. The following serve as officers: Genevieve Meenach, president; Nessie Robertson, vice-president; Helen Miller, secretary; Margaret Steiner, treasurer.

Other girls who turned out are: Kathryn Hanner, Louise Fallgren, Virginia Carrol, Joy Thompson, Mildred Meyer, Betty Boyd, Mary Hurd, Dorothy Hutsell, Virginia Meenach, Beverly Bradley, Doris Klein, Jeannette Babcock, Katherine Petersen, Willa Jensen and Pauline Miller.

SKATING

Skating as an organized sport is a new enterprise at North Central. Throughout December, January and February a group of boys, girls and faculty members took trips to Wandermere after school and usually skated until six.

Miss Mary Sidney Mitchell was faculty adviser, Herschell Wright and Irene Johnson served as student managers.

Each student brought his own skates and admission fee. Transportation was furnished by faculty, students and parents. An average of eighty made the thirteen trips. The largest number to attend was 106.

The skating organization has achieved success this semester and next winter the trips are to be continued. Students have derived benefits of a social nature as well as those of physical exercise. It is the first time that boys and girls have had a chance to play together in school sports.

AWARD SYSTEM

Following the system of many colleges, one letter only for all intramural sports is given to girls on the sum total of points earned.

A majority of points must be earned in such active sports as basketball, baseball, volleyball and track. It is not necessary to be on a win-

RAILROAD BRAVERY

THIRD PRIZE STORY

By Robert J. Smith

It was just turning dusk when Dick Wilcox left the private car which served as an office to the Division Superintendent for the Great Northern Railroad. It was an ideal evening in early summer, and the inhabitants of the small town of Troy, Idaho were enjoying the refreshing coolness of the breeze that blew from the mountains. But the beauty of the evening had no effect upon Dick. His eyes were blinded with stinging tears of fury, and he walked with the speed of a person beside himself with rage and disappointment. In a few minutes he had left the main street of the little town, and it was only then that he slowed his pace, and endeavored to collect his scattered thoughts. He sat down on a nearby rock, and let his mind travel back over the last few days.

Two days ago he had left Spokane, very happy. At last he was on his way to a job. He had been given every reason in the world to believe that he would get this job as a brakeman. He had been trying for months to get work on this railroad, and at last he thought his chance had come. Through a friend of his father's, he had learned of this position which was open to the right man. All that was necessary he had been told was to go to the Division Superintendent at Troy, and present him with the necessary qualifications.

"Of course, Dickie, you musn't expect too much," the old man had said. "You're young yet, and haven't had much experience. They put a new Division Superintendent in there at Troy, and I don't know just what kind of a feller he is. Old man Blane was all for givin' you a chance, but I'm not so sure about this new 'un. You've got good recommendations, though, and you just go and tell him who you are and I reckon you'll get the job."

So Dick had set out for Troy with only a couple of dollars in his pocket, but with new hope in his heart. At last his chance had come! His long hoped for "railroad job" was practically a reality. Dick knew that the job of brakeman called for a level head and a certain amount of bravery, and he felt that he was capable of filling such a position. Even though he was only twenty-three and had had little actual railroad experience, he knew all there was to know about locomotives. His father had been a veteran railroad man, and Dick had been practically raised on a train.

All of these things were running through his mind now, and his cheeks burned again at the thought of the brief fifteen minutes which he had spent talking with the big burly man who was the new Division Superintendent.

"I'm sorry, my boy," the man said, not unkindly, "but it takes a man with plenty of nerve to fill that position. You're a little bit too young. You might have the nerve, all right, but I'm afraid to risk it. Come back in five or six years and I'll see what I can do for you."

Dick had remained a few minutes longer trying to persuade the man to change his mind, but it was no use. So here he was; broke, with no job, no prospects, and down on the world in general.

After awhile he arose from the rock on which he had been sitting, and leaving the road he walked across a strip of open country until he came to the railroad. He had no direction in particular in which to go. He dreaded going back to Spokane and reporting his failure to "land a job" because he was too young. So he walked aimlessly down the center of the track, not caring where he was going.

It had gradually grown darker, until now Dick could scarcely see the rails in front of him. Suddenly the stillness of the mountains was broken by a distant whistle. Dick paused, and glanced at his watch. The hands pointed to 6:05, and Dick knew that the Great Northern mail train was thundering its way down the mountain towards Troy. Dick thrilled as he thought of the huge locomotive travelling at a rate of sixty miles an hour.

The whistle blew again, and this time it was noticeably nearer. Suddenly Dick heard a rattling on the hill above him, and then a terrific noise. A shower of loose rocks and dust was hurled into the air, and Dick saw that a huge boulder had become dislodged and was hurtling down the hill toward him. He jumped back just in time to avoid being crushed as the rock hit the track and stopped—lodged firmly between the rails.

For an instant Dick regarded the massive rock curiously, marvelling at his narrow escape. Then suddenly he stiffened. The train whistle had sounded again, and this time it seemed only about four or five miles away. Dick looked at the semaphore that stood by the tracks only a few yards distant, and uttered a gasp of dismay. The rock had not hit in such a way as to break the wire, and the light in the semafore still showed blue, which was the sign of a clear track.

Dick knew that he must act quickly. He could tell by a glance that it was impossible to move the rock in the few minutes in which he had to work. There was only one thing left to do and that was to change that blue light to red and thus cause the train to stop. Dick also knew that there was only one way to do this. Less than a minute after the rock had hit the track, Dick was running swiftly toward the semaphore.

Rapidly he climbed the ladder, and having reached the top, he hurriedly examined the lights. The one thing to do was to short the circuit. It had to be grounded, and the only way to do it was to use his own body for the ground. It meant a bad burn—possibly worse—but Dick did not hesitate. Hurriedly he opened the knife which he always carried with him, and cut the wire, grabbing it in his hand as he did so. He saw the light turn red, even as the pain of the burn brought a cry of torture from his lips. Slowly he descended the ladder, his right arm hanging useless by his side. At the bottom he stood for an instant clinging to the ladder, and then everything went black.

When Dick next opened his eyes it was on a strange scene. He was in a bed in a railroad car. His right arm was swathed in bandages, and there were several strange men sitting beside his bed.

"Hello, son," one of the men said, "how are you feeling now?" Dick turned his head painfully in the direction of the speaker, and recognized the big burly man who was the Division Superintendent.

"Pretty good," Dick answered the question weakly, "did the train . . . ?"

"The train is O. K. son, thanks to you. They brought you in last night, and told what you had done."

Dick sighed, "I'm glad everything turned out all right," he said, turning his head wearily.

"You are darned right things turned out all right. Not only for the train, but for you, too. As soon as that arm of yours is O. K. you've got a steady job. You may not be as old and experienced as some of 'em, but you've sure got what it takes to be a railroad man."

Mack Koon: I spoiled my new suit with your fresh paint.

Grocer: But didn't you see the sign, "Fresh paint"?

M. K.: Yes, but I didn't take much notice. You have a sign "Fresh Eggs," but they're not fresh.

Senior: Gosh, what a crowd. What happened over there?

Soph: A man fell off the roof.

Senior: Is he hurt?

Soph: Don't know yet. We've only found one leg so far.

Marsh Jones: These high school teachers don't know a thing! Why, not one of them could teach and get away with it anywhere else. They're just dumb—why, they oughta get a whole new teaching staff!

Bob Campbell: Yeh, I flunked too.

"I hear my son owed you for a suit of clothes for three years."

"Yes, sir; have you called to settle the account?"

"No, I'd like a suit myself on the same terms."

Mr. Ecker (taking up exam paper): Why the quotation marks all over this paper?

"Shires" Sherwood: Courtesy to the man on my right.

Senior A (getting picture taken): Ow! My back aches.

Photographer: Quit your crying. It won't show in the picture.

Graduation speaker: When you graduate from here may you have patience and prove yourselves not irascible; may you pertinaciously cling to your concatenated thoughts of the future; and let not pusillanimity interfere with your indigenous desire for performing supererogatory labors.

One of the victims: And here the old man told me to get a job.

Bob Campbell: I can't play billiards in the winter.

Joe Shriver: How come?

B. Campbell: Every time I see the three balls it reminds me of my overcoat.

Barbara Bloom: B. kissed me last night.

Virginia Rodgers: How many times?

Bloom: Oh, I came here to confess, not to boast.

Cantrell: How did you get even with your chemistry teacher?

Stowe: Oh, I handed him a hot retort.

Dentist: I'm sorry, but I'm all out of gas.

Girl in chair: Ye gods! Do dentists pull that old stuff, too?

Sellers: What are you going to do with your bathing suit this winter?

McGee: Use it for a book mark.

WE SERVE GOOD COFFEE

We know of cases where men and women have ceased to patronize other-wise good restaurants because the coffee has not come up to their expectations. We are determined not to lose customers that way. The coffee we serve is just as good as the other things that go to make up a delicious meal. We know you will like our restaurant.

"I thought you had broken your engagement with Charlie."

"I did, but you see his father sent him $5000, and—"

"I see."

Misselhorn: Say, there ought to be a cooling system in Mary's house.

Wolbert: There is. Her pappie sits down stairs every time I call.

"There's a traveling salesman waiting outside, sir—man with a mustache."

"Tell him I've got a mustache."

"I just swallowed a great big worm."

"Hadh't you better take something for it?"

"No—I'll let the darn thing starve."

Pat Green: My sweetie just gave me a rain-bow kiss.

Howard Barker: What the deuce is that.

P. G.: Oh, the kind that comes after a storm.

Brownlow: A man is never older than he feels. Now this morning I feel as fresh as a two-year old.

Breeden (sweetly): Horse or egg?

Jack Misselhorn likes a girl beautiful but dumb—beautiful enough to please him and dumb enough to like him.

Tab Ellis: Something seems wrong with this engine, it—

H. Schumacher: Don't be silly, wait until we get off the main road.

Teacher: Johnny, I'm surprised! Do you know any more jokes like that!

Johnny: Yes, teacher.

Teacher: Well, stay after school.

Burger: Jim speaks Mexican like a native.

Seymour: Yeh— like a native Bulgarian.

Mr. Rowlands: Can you operate a typewriter?

Dorothy Breeden: Yes, sir; I use the Biblical system.

Mr. Rowlands: I never heard of it.

D. B.: Seek and ye shall find.

Bill Dibblee: May I kiss you on the forehead?

Barbara Bloom: If you do you'll get a bang in your mouth.

Peterson: What steps would you take if you saw a ghost suddenly rise in your path?

Demick: The longest I possibly could.

Senior: What would you say if you were blown up by a stick of dynamite?

Second Joke: That's me all over.

Dorothy Schumacher: Stop! (tragically) This can't go on.

Clerk: Very well, Miss, we'll try a larger shoe.

Miss Riker (in art class, holding up a group of pictures): Now, pick out one with warm colors.

Franklin Nyberg: That one is pretty hot.

Hunner: It doesn't matter whether I wear chiffon or velvet; you like me anyway, don't you?

Koon: I'll always love you through thick and thin.

Peterson: This big Italian fighter has to have a bed over seven feet long.

Neuru: Say, that's a lot of bunk.

Rooney: Can you drive with one hand?

Hove (enthusiastically): You bet I can.

Virginia (cruelly): Have an apple.

Ludcke: Shriver is an awful ladies' man.

Barker: I believe it. I've seen him with some awful ones.

Bloom: Stop, my lips are for another.

Dibblee: Well, hold still and I'll give you another.

Campbell: A woman can make a fool of you in ten minutes.

Patrick: Fine.

Bootblack: Well, for 15 cents I'll do the other one.

Merchant: Why, aren't you the same boy who asked for a job here a week ago?

Grant Dixon: Yes, sir.

Merchant: Didn't I tell you then that I wanted an older boy.

Grant: Yes, sir. That's why I'm back now.

Shires Sherwood (in Psychology class): Miss Cronk, don't most feeble-minded people have one particular thing that they can do especially well.

Miss Cronk: What can you do, Fenton?

Mr. Demick: I've got a freak on my farm. It's a two-legged calf.

Mr. Carr: I know. He came to call on Marion last night.

Yesterday

He: That's a beautiful dress you have on.

She: Thank you, I made it myself.

Today

He: Ya got a cute face, baby.

She: Thanks, big boy, I made it myself.

Sherman: What is the name of your car?

Allison: I call her Shasta.

Vincent: Because she's a daisy?

Bobbie: No, because she has to have gas, she has to have oil, she has to have repairs and she has to have something all the time.

Waiter (at restaurant): There's most everything on the menu today.

Eugenia Prery: So I see. Bring me a clean one, please.

Miss Cronk (in Psychology class): Give me the name of an object sold in a grocery store, beginning with the letter q.

Roger James (brightly): Cucumbers!

Doo: Really, your argument with your wife last night was most amusing.

Did: Wasn't it, though? And when she threw the axe at me, I thought I'd split.

Once there was a scotchman who was so tight he put boric acid in his grape fruit in order to get a free eye wash.

First ditto: Can your girl keep a secret?

Second ditto: Gosh, yes. We were engaged three weeks before I knew a thing about it.

There was chop suey on the menu but the waiter wiped it off.

Anderson: Do you play the piano by ear?

Briggs: No, just with my hands.

Les McEachren: I always kiss the stamp on your letters because I know your lips have touched them.

Audrey Gates: Oh, dear! And to think I wet them on Fido's nose.

Jack: Lets play store.

Mary: But we haven't any money.

Jack: That's right. Let's play bank.

Miss Clarke (in Psychology class): What is the good of life?

Bob Campbell (dryly): A new magazine.

Margaret Carpenter (writing a lesson): Did the Indians have any social organizations?

Nessie Robertson: Of course, haven't you heard of the Indian clubs?

Barbara Bloom: Have any of your childhood hopes ever been realized?

Mr. Bradford: Yes, when Mother used to pull my hair, I wished I hadn't any.

Bankson's Dad: Son, your studies at school seem to be suffering. Do you think you need a coach?

Roddy: No, Dad, a roadster will do.

Bill Melson: I was in a jam last night.

Fran Pearson: Tell me about it, but don't spread it on too thick.

Sellars: Some men thirst after fame, some after love, and some after money.

McGee: I know something that all men thirst after.

Chuck: What's that.

Margaret: Salted almonds.

Miss Clarke: I believe that's all I have to say before the test. Any questions?

"Brock" Campbell: What chapters do the test cover?

Dixon: I wonder why Margaret is making a collection of guns and pistols.

Misselhorn: Oh! She likes to have arms around her all the time.

Neuru: Did you ever know Sitting Bull's good looking daughter?

Dibblee: Do you mean Sitting Pretty?

Roddy: Dad cut off my allowance.

Bill Brown: Would you accept a pet monkey?

Ruth Hansen: This is so sudden, I'll have to ask father.

Dorothy: Why the black eye?

Dibblee: Oh, I went to a dance last night and I was struck by the beauty of the place.

Bill Brown: Ouch!

Ruth Hansen: What is the matter?

Billy: I hit the wrong nail.

Miss Riker: Give one of the dates for the revival of learning, Franklin.
